GRADUATION OF LOUISA HIGH SCHOOL CLASS

FIVE YOUNG PERSONS FINISH THE COURSE LEADING TO COLLEGE WORK.

The commencement exercises of Louisa High School began last Sunday with the baccalaureate sermon. This was followed by the senior play at Garden Theater Monday night, and the graduating exercises on Tuesday night. The closing feature was the convocation of the student body at the high school building on Wednesday morning.

The graduates are Misses Opal Plybon, Alva Snyder, Elizabeth Roberts, Emily Conley and Mr. Hubert Chaffin.

Rev. Chas. A. Slaughter of Ashland, preached the sermon to the class.

A very large audience was present to enjoy and profit by the remarkably strong and fitting discourse. That nothing better has been heard in Louisville on such an occasion is the opinion we have heard expressed by numbers of those present.

Excellent music was furnished, the numbers worthy of special mention being the violin solo by Mrs. John Brickner, accompanied by Mrs. Robt. Castner, and the vocal solo by W. F. Wiechers. The M. E. Church and Baptist church dismissed their services and joined in the service.

Rev. J. W. Simpson led the prayer and the benediction was given by Rev. John Cheap.

THE SENIOR PLAY.

"The Winning of Latane" was the title of a four-act comedy-drama rendered at Garden Theater Monday night by the class, assisted by Burgess Carter, Edward Land Paul Roberts, Alvin See, Mont Hale, Emmanuel Sargent, Foster Queen and Burton Queen.

The work of these young people was quite creditable. There was a large crowd out to witness it. The orchestra supplied exceedingly good music. The net proceeds will be applied on a piano for the high school.

COMMENCEMENT PROGRAM.

On Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock the final exercises were held in the M. E. Church South, this being the largest auditorium available to the high school.

The program was as follows:

Processional—"Stars and Stripes Forever" Orchestra.

Invocation—Rev. John Cheap.

Flage Solo—Grand Valse de Concerto. Matel—Mrs. Robt. Castner.

Essay—"Citizens of Tomorrow"—Miss Opal Plybon.

Essay—"The Heart of America"—Miss Alva Snyder.

Music—Orchestra.

Essay—"The New Diplomacy"—Miss Elizabeth Roberts.

Essay—"Efficiency"—Mr. Hubert Chaffin.

Vocal Solo—W. F. Wiechers.

Valedictory Essay—"Heroes of Yesterday"—Miss Emily Conley.

Violin Solo—"Leiberreud"—Fritz Kreisler—Mrs. John Brickner.

Conferring of Diplomas—Chairman Board of Education.

Music—Orchestra.

Address—Hon. George Colvin.

Benediction—Rev. J. W. Simpson.

When the orchestra opened with its first number the class marched down the left aisle and the faculty, with Prof. Colvin, went down the right aisle, followed by the board of education. All were seated on the platform in proper order. In the center were Mr. Colvin, Prof. S. B. Godbey, Principal, and Dr. C. B. Walters, chairman of the board. The five graduates sat at their right. On their left were Prof. N. Q. Gilmer, Miss Ruth Hall, teacher, Messrs. W. H. Adams, W. E. Queen and A. M. Hughes, members of the board. Back of them in the choir space, behind a wealth of ferns and flowers tastefully arranged, was the orchestra. Along the front of the platform were more floral decorations. The "sweet girl graduates" were arrayed most becomingly in white costumes and made a pretty picture. The lone young man in the class added strength and poise to the line.

The program went smoothly from start to finish and there was not a dull moment. The address of Mr. George Colvin, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, was a charming and impressive feature of the occasion.

The best evidence of the effect upon the audience was the rapt attention, the spontaneous applause, the tears that found their way into many eyes, and the response that came to his many bright and clever expressions and descriptions. It was an address that would delight any intelligent audience. Getting to local affairs Mr. Colvin urged in the strongest possible terms the support of this public high school.

We can not review the essays, although each is worthy of extended notice and most complimentary mention. Mr. Colvin referred to the patriotic note running through all of these essays, and commended them very highly for their general excellence.

The orchestra was composed of Mrs. Robert Castner at the piano, Mrs. J. T. Brickner violin, Neil Plummer corno, J. B. Vaughan, banjoine. John Page drums. Their music was so good that Mr. Colvin took occasion to praise it in the highest terms, and he included the vocal solo by Mr. Wiechers, which was very greatly enjoyed by everybody. Mrs. Brickner played superbly, and her selection for the solo was as usual with her a tuneful number that charmed the audience. Mrs. Castner's piano solo likewise was a happy selection, and was skillfully executed.

Dr. C. B. Walters awarded the diplomas after a brief and appropriate address.

After the close of the exercises scores of people came forward to meet Mr. Colvin and express their appreciation of his address, and to congratulate graduates and other persons who had part in the program.

The Louisa High School has done excellent work. The teachers are capable and conscientious. The pupils who pass in this school do so on merit alone. The course is regular and the credits are good anywhere. The school is working in harmony with the State system and in sympathy with the effort to raise Kentucky's standing in educational matters. The Louisa Board of Education deserves much credit for the work it has done under difficulties.

Miss Ruth Hall trained the pupils for the two plays given at Garden Theater this spring. She merits praise the success of the performance.

VINSON MEMORIAL CHURCH DEDICATION NEXT SUNDAY

The Vinson Memorial Church on the Piedmont road near Westmoreland is to be dedicated next Sunday morning to the memory of the late S. S. and "Aunt Polly" Vinson, the dedicatory address to be delivered by Dr. Roger H. Fife.

Following the dedication, a reunion will be held by the Vinson family at the old homestead near the church, which will be participated in by scores of people.

Dr. Fife, who conducted a series of evangelistic services at the church some weeks ago, has been invited to return for the occasion. He addressed the congregation at the two sermons Sunday, and will hold meetings each evening this week in anticipation of the coming event.—Huntington Herald Dispatch.

Shannon attended years ago.

Dear Mr. Conley:—That "Chorus" of the "Home-Comers" sounds sweet to another "Prodigal" over here in St. Louis, Mo. Legally, Missouri is my home, but in all my years away there never has been a time that I faltered in my love for my native Lawrence and claimed her as my home. Now all together to make this the greatest event in the history of good old Lawrence county! Feeling that I'm still a citizen of Lawrence county and can therefore be host as well as guest, I'm sending a check for $10.00 to help pay the expense that will necessarily arise in making this event a success.

Respectfully, WILLIAM LABAN MOORE.

PRICE OF COAL FIXED BY HOOVER

U. S. SECRETARY OF COMMERCE TAKES A HAND TO HOLD PRICES DOWN.

Washington, May 31.—Secretary Hoover today assumed the responsibility for fixing a reasonable price on spot coal during the continuance of the present coal strike.

The announcement was made at a general conference with the operators.

The Commerce Secretary suggested the immediate appointment of committees representing each producing district to advise with him upon a fair price for coal in their respective districts. He also asked that these committees should continue in existence and report to him after the determination of fair prices, cases of unfair price in their districts, and act at his request as might be necessary to meet such cases.

Mr. Hoover told the several hundred operators assembled at the meeting that the conference had been called by him at the request of President Harding to consult as to what means might properly be taken to restrain runaway coal prices due to the strike. He explained that the conference was not concerned with wages or other questions, but solely with the question of price and distribution of coal now being produced.

Speaking of present conditions over the country he said that production was now about five million tons a week and consumption between 8,000,000 and 8,500,000, thus necessitating withdrawals from stock amounting to between 2,000,000 and 3,500,000 tons a week.

Production will increase slightly as times goes on he added.

LAST COAL STRIKE.

Mr. Hoover recalled that the last time there was a coal strike coal rose as high as twelve to fifteen dollars a ton at the mine, which he declared represented millions of dollars a week loss to the public while at the same time lending a color of profiteering to the operator. This "color," he asserted, was against the will and the wish of the operators, who considered it the most disastrous thing that could happen to them.

Coal prices throughout the country today, Mr. Hoover continued, range from about two dollars and twenty-five cents to three dollars and fifty cents a ton at the mine, but what the operator is interested in is dollars and not cents altho the margin of from 15 to 20 cents a ton on coal may be the margin between profit and loss for the operators. The public, Mr. Hoover contended, should understand that the problem at hand is almost of stupendous difficulty.

What a fair price for coal depends upon conditions in each district and where profiteering begins and ends is a question of a definite fair price, determined upon facts and not upon theories the Secretary told the operators. There is not, Mr. Hoover explained, a single shred of law to enforce a fair price or prevent profiteering, and the law prohibits operators agreeing as to what a fair price may be. Combinations in the public interest, he stated, are just as illegal as combinations against the public interest.

The agreement, he continued, would be between the operator and Secretary of Commerce and if the operator failed to live up to it, it would be upon his conscience. Mr. Hoover stated that he wished it brought emphatically before the public that the administration was seeking cooperation of the coal operators and that if the plan failed it would not be a failure of the operators, but a failure in law and administration officials.

ACTION TAKEN.

Maximum fair prices for spot coal in five districts were announced to-night by Secretary Hoover, after reaching agreements with committees representing those fields under the plan adopted at the general conference of operators from producing fields for preventing runaway prices on coal at the mines during the strike.

It was determined that in the Alabama district the fair price should be 25 cents below the final Garfield scale or a maximum of $2.20 a ton, to $2.66 a ton.

In the Harlan and Hazard fields in Kentucky, the Southern Appalachian fields of Tennessee and Kentucky and the Pocahontas, New River, Tug river and Winding Gulf fields (smokeless coal districts of West Virginia) the maximum price was fixed at $3.50 a ton.

The operators, he said, emphasized that the price set was a maximum, that anyone might sell below it and that long contracts for coal are necessarily below the levels set today. In the other districts, he declared, production costs have increased since the Garfield scale and that scale included contract coal which now sells below the new maximum. The operators are to absorb a reasonable selling expense at the new prices, he said.

Fair prices for the remaining fields which are producing during the strike are to be fixed tomorrow after conferences between Mr. Hoover and committees representing those districts which were approached after the general meeting today. The plan adopted at the general meeting calls for agreements between Mr. Hoover and the committees upon fair prices for coal at the mines in their districts based on the Garfield scale as modified by local conditions.

Moral suasion will be relied upon by Mr. Hoover to keep the agreements in force for the duration of the strike, it was indicated.

In the Kentucky and Tennessee fields Mr. Hoover said the last Garfield price including commission, varied from $2.50 to $3.00 a ton for domestic coal and from $3.85 to $4.35 per ton on export and bunker coal.

WORK OF REMODELING M. E. CHURCH BEGUN

Work of remodeling and enlarging the M. E. Church of this place was begun this week. There will be an addition on the west side of the building of five Sunday school rooms, a dining room and kitchen. The class rooms will be separated from the auditorium by large folding doors which may be opened at any time making all into one room. Each room will have two large windows affording good light and ventilation.

The old building, which is brick, will be completely gone over on the inside, redecorated, etc., and the outside will be painted. Also, a concrete wall will be built along the front and one to the parsonage. It is expected that the work will be completed in about two months, with an approximate cost of $5000.00.

NEW RACE TRACK NEAR RUSSELL

Construction of a race course and air ground at Chinnville near Russell, Ky., to cost approximately a quarter of a million dollars, was announced Wednesday following the purchase of the tract of 200 acres of land by a syndicate of Lexington, Ky., promoters. It was stated that $40,000 was paid for the tract.

Initial plans to locate the race track at Ashland or Ironton were abandoned when it was found that the price of suitable sites would be prohibitive.

This mile track will be the fourth in Kentucky, the others being Churchill Downs, Louisville; Latonia, Covington; and Lexington. The races run at these tracks attract the sporting blood of the eastern section of the country who attend them at these tracks each year.

It was stated that in all probability a new hotel would be erected by the race track promoters near the track.

The project is being financed by Lexington capitalists, who announced that contract for the construction work on the grounds and buildings would be let as soon as engineers had completed a preliminary survey.

The deal was closed by Tom Cromwell, Jack Chin and R. P. Keen, members of the Kentucky Racing Commission of Lexington. Henry Hornd, engineer, has been surveying the new track. He has been in this territory several weeks with his corps of engineers, surveying other prospective tracks in and around Ashland and Russell. The promoters have made several visits to the tri-state region to look over the situation before purchasing land for the enterprise.

Rev. E. S. Flynt of Glenwood will preach at Olovile Sunday evening and Sunday night.

The Olovile Sunday school is largely attended and much interest is manifested.

Services are ripe and the luscious fruit is very plentiful.

After a lingering illness of about six months the spirit of Bobbie Daniel took its flight to the God who gave it. He had passed his three score years, but was active and as willing to work as the ordinary man at forty.

He made a stubborn fight with the enemy but yielded at last and passed to the great beyond as peacefully as a babe falling to sleep in its mother's arms.

He died in the triumph of a living faith and was laid to rest in the Hammond burial ground to await the resurrection morn when he will come forth crowned with immortality and will be one of the redeemed of God and not "Old Bob Daniel."

In death all are equal without regard to this world's goods. This is as should be. No man can buy salvation. It is free to all who will but reach forth to it and accept it.

IN MEMORY

Herman Arville Hays, beloved son of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Hays was born March 26, 1921, departed this life May 22, 1922, one year one month and 25 days old. Herman Arville was taken from this world May 22 and our hearts are sad as we realize Herman Arville is gone and we are never to see him on earth any more. We can say we are going to meet him never to part and we realize its not going to be long till we all will have to meet God and our loved ones. No more can we see his sweet smile, no more can we hear his little sweet voice. Everybody that ever saw him said he was such a sweet baby.

Earth has lost its looks of gladness. Heaven seems to us more bright since the spirit of our loved one took its happy homeward flight and we long to cross that river, long to rest upon that shore, there to see and know and love him with the Savior ever more.

There is a vacancy in our home that never can be filled. He leaves to mourn his loss father, mother and two little sisters and many friends.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

We are authorized to announce H. C. DUFFY, of Harrison county, as a candidate for Representative in Congress from the Ninth Kentucky District, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce W. J. FIELDS of Carter county, as a candidate for the nomination for Congress in the Ninth District of Kentucky, subject to the action of the Democratic party in the primary election to be held on Saturday, August 5, 1922.

Every voter in Kentucky who wants the privilege of voting must register on the 10th or 15th of July this year. Only one registration is required for all time, except for persons changing precincts or establishing citizenship.

The race track proposition for eastern Kentucky did not meet with a very hearty response in Ashland. At least, there was a vigorous protest from church people. This may have had something to do with going down into Greenup county, between Russell and Greenup. The racing business, with betting machines legalized, is going to be an issue in politics in Kentucky before a great while.

There are many things that could and possibly should be said in connection with efforts to do things for the town and community, but a lot of it would not look well in print. A newspaper often exercises a large amount of restraint just to keep from advertising to the outside world the fact that the town bristles (the word is used advisedly) with people who insist upon profiteering in advance on every enterprise that is proposed. They kill oftener than they "make a killing."

It is hard to be a booster under such conditions.

BURIAL NEAR OLD HOME.

The body of Mrs. Carrie T. Pindexter was brought to Louisa on Tuesday from Welch, W. Va., and was taken to the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Carrie Meek Prater, near this place. She was the daughter of Mrs. M. H. Thompson and sister of Chas. M. Thompson, who lives in Colorado.

Mission to Brazil May Be Headed By Hughes

Washington, May 30.—Charles E. Hughes, Secretary of State, probably will head the special mission which the United States will send to Brazil to participate in the centenary of Brazilian independence which will open in Rio de Janeiro September 7.

No official announcement has been made of the appointment of such a mission because Congress has not yet specifically authorized it. President Harding is known to desire that the American mission be composed of most distinguished representatives of the United States Government. At the time of the centennial celebration of the United States, 1876, Brazil sent Emperor don Pedro II to this country, the only foreign ruler present at our celebration.

The President would like to return this courtesy in person, but finds it will be impossible on account of the press of official business. For this reason it is believed he will designate Mr. Hughes, the head of the Cabinet, as chairman of the American mission assuming Congress makes financial provisions for one.

BIG SANDY VALLEY IS LOGICAL PLACE
FOR NEW NORMAL

(By MOSE E. LIGON)

Principal Ashland High School

The commission appointed to locate the new Normal school in Eastern Kentucky is under obligation to the people to place this school at that point in the territory that it is to serve where it will benefit the largest number. A ruler, placed on the map of Kentucky with one end at the Ohio river on the boundary line between Mason and Lewis counties and the other end at the Virginia boundary line between Harlan and Letcher counties, will cut off fifteen counties of Eastern Kentucky which must be served by the new school.

These counties embrace 5,409 square miles. This is about one-eighth of the state. The population of these counties is approximately 300,000. Of this population there are approximately 87,000 school children between the ages of six and eighteen. These children at the present time are taught by approximately 1,500 teachers. There is no other section of Kentucky, embracing a similar area, that has taught its children under such difficulties as these counties. It is probable that the standard of education in these counties is the lowest, on the whole, of any section of the state. These facts will indicate to the careful observer, that the new Normal school must be placed in this section, if it is to fulfill its mission in the preparation of the teachers in Eastern Kentucky.

Several places in this territory have been suggested as suitable places for the location of this school. Among these places, Morehead and several places in the Big Sandy Valley have been mentioned. The purpose of this paper is to show that the Big Sandy Valley is the logical place for the location of this school. Morehead is sixty-nine miles from Richmond the seat of one of the state normal schools. Mt. Sterling is thirty-seven miles from Morehead. These facts indicate that the Normal school, placed at Morehead, would be located too near one of the present normal schools. On the other hand if this school is located in the Sandy Valley it will be 125 to 200 miles from the present normal school.

The location of the school must be easily accessible to the counties it must serve. If the school be placed at Morehead, it would be on one edge of the territory. Furthermore, it will be located in town that can be reached only by one main line of railroad. The students from the counties of Lewis and Greenup, lying along the Ohio river, would have to go to Riverton or Ashland and then go over the Lexington division of the C. & O. to Morehead.

There are nine counties in the Sandy Valley that would have to go to Ashland and then over the Lexington division to Morehead. From Jenkins in Letcher county, to Morehead is approximately 200 miles therefore the item of railroad expense to the students would amount to a considerable sum. The location of the Normal school in the Sandy Valley would tend to equalize this expense to the students attending the school. If the school is placed at Morehead it will become easily accessible to the mountain counties of Elliott, Morgan, Carter and Boyd. If it is placed in the Big Sandy Valley it is made easily accessible to all the mountain counties of the territory outlined in this article also to the counties lying along the Ohio river. This fact is enough to convince the impartial observer that the Sandy Valley is the place for the school.

The school should be located in a section of this territory that gives promise of future growth. The location of Morehead and the natural resources of the surrounding country give little promise of much future growth. On the other hand, there is not a town in the Big Sandy Valley that does not give great promise of future growth. In fact, the development of the resources of the Big Sandy Valley is just beginning. The coal, gas, oil and timber of the Sandy Valley are unequalled in quantity and quality in any other section of America. Capital and labor are going into this section every year in large quantities for the development of these wonderful natural resources. This means a constantly increasing population and an increase of wealth to the state. With the increase of population and the growth in wealth, the education of these people must not be neglected. The Normal school in this section will do much to promote the progress of education.

Along with these material things, the Sandy Valley, by the right of its large population of fine, stalwart people, and of its wealth is entitled to a state institution. Paducah, Hopkinsville, Eddyville and Bowling Green in the western part of the state and Louisville, Lexington, Frankfort, Danville and Richmond in the central part of the state, enjoy the benefits derived from the state institutions located in them. The new normal school, which is planned for Eastern Kentucky, should be located farther from Lexington than Morehead, to be known as an Eastern Kentucky institution. By placing this institution in the Big Sandy Valley, it will be known, loved and honored by the people of Eastern Kentucky in the same manner as the institutions of the middle and western sections of the state are loved and honored by those people.

The commission will select the site for this normal school within the next few weeks. The main facts, setting forth the reasons why this school should be located in Eastern Kentucky have been pointed out. It is the duty of every loyal citizen of the Sandy Valley to use his influence in convincing the commission that these facts, and others that may be added, are good and legitimate reasons why the new normal school should come to the Sandy region. —Ashland Independent.

Qualifications of
Teachers for Accredited High SchoolsTo The Members Of The Boards
Of Education:

Gentlemen:

In response to numerous inquiries relative to the qualification of teachers in Accredited High Schools I reply as follows:

1. A teacher must hold a certificate which entitles him to teach in a public high school. This certificate must be in full force when the contract is made and must not expire during the school term.

Any one of the following kinds of certificate legally entitles the holder to teach in high school, but some additional qualifications are necessary to teach in an Accredited High School.

a. State Certificate.

b. State Diploma.

c. Intermediate or Advanced Certificate issued by the Department of Education of the University of Kentucky.

d. Advanced certificate issued by either of the Kentucky State Normal Schools.

e. High School Certificate issued by the State Board of Examiners, (no longer issued.)

f. High School Certificate issued by the State Board of Education to graduates of Standard and Junior Colleges under certain conditions.

g. High School Certificates issued by Boards of Education in cities of the first, second, third or fourth class (valid only in city issuing the certificate.)

Note especially the fact that an elementary certificate of any class does not entitle the holder to teach in high school.

2. In addition to holding a proper certificate the following requirements must be met in Accredited High Schools:

a. Class A. At least two-thirds of the teachers must possess an academic scholarship equivalent to graduation from a Standard College. The remaining one-third of the teachers must have scholarship equivalent to graduation from a Standard High School, and, in addition thereto, the equivalent of two years work in College or Normal School, a part of which should be in professional and pedagogical subjects.b. Class B. At least two teachers must be employed who devote all their time to high school work. At least half of these teachers must possess academic scholarship equivalent to graduation from a Standard College. The remaining teacher must have scholarship equivalent to graduation from a Standard High School, and, in addition thereto, two years' work in College or Normal School, a part of which should be in professional and pedagogical subjects.

3. The following explanations of "equivalent" are given:

a. "Equivalent to graduation from a Standard High School." Any person now teaching high school who holds any of the above certificates, except the "State Certificate," will be regarded as having the "equivalent of graduation from a Standard High School," provided he has attended one or more terms of summer school within the last four years.

b. "Equivalent to two years' work in College or Normal School." Any person now teaching high school who holds any of the above certificates, except the "State Certificate," and in addition, has taught high school successfully for three years for each year he lacks of having two years' college training will be regarded as having the equivalent to two years' college education provided he has attended one or more sessions of summer school during the last four years.

c. "Equivalent to graduation from Standard College." No general rule can be laid down for "equivalent to graduation from a Standard College," but each case will be considered on its merits. However, no person will be considered for such rating who is not now teaching high school. He must also hold some one of the certificates listed above, other than "State Certificate" and must have taught successfully in high school three years for each year he lacks of graduating from a Standard College, provided he has attended summer school one or more sessions within the last four years.

4. a. List of Standard Colleges of Kentucky: University of Kentucky, Georgetown College, Berea College, Centre College, University of Louisville, Transylvania College, Kentucky Wesleyan College, Asbury College. The last named college is not yet a member of the Kentucky College Association. Colleges of equal rank in other States will be regarded as Standard Colleges.

5. All high schools in Kentucky will be inspected within the next eighteen months. They will be re-classified if necessary. This applies to accredited as well as to unaccredited high schools.

High schools must run nine months per year.

Sincerely yours,

GEO. COLVIN,
State Superintendent.

HIGH TAXES.

The universal cry is against high taxes. The cry should not be against high taxes, but against the corrupt use of taxes. The question of high or low taxes is to some extent governed by the valuation put upon property from the public treasury. Crush the socialist, paternal spirit growing up in this county, whether in the form of the pork barrel or government ownership of public utilities. All such unconstitutional doctrines and practices are increasing the taxes to the breaking point.

The continued excessive tax burden can be traced to certain abuses:

First: Extravagant, complicated governments. The office seekers, office holders, and tax eaters have multiplied government machinery to perpetuate themselves in office. If you would reduce the machinery and throw out of office the inefficient, rat-hole hunting office parasites you would reduce the cost of municipal, county, state and national governments 30 per cent. To-day, you have about sixty cents of every dollar of tax money in

FARM BOYS BUSY.

Hindman, Ky. — Interest among Knott county boys and girls in junior agricultural club work is on the increase. County Agent J. W. Farmer says. Funds have been raised to pay four local leaders to promote the work in various sections of the county while the members of one club have raised enough money to pay the expenses of one delegate to Junior Week to be held at Lexington June 19 to 24 by the College of Agricultural food farm boys and girls of the state, he added.

Dam No. 25, Ohio River,
Is Now Completed

Point Pleasant, W. Va.—Dam 25 was put in operation Saturday by the United States government. Work on the structure, which spans the Ohio river at York three miles from Point Pleasant, was completed this week by the National Contract Company and formally accepted for the government by W. R. Eades, construction engineer who is officiating as lockmaster.

The project, which is the last link in the chain providing slack water from Charleston to Pittsburgh, was completed at a cost of approximately $1,750,000. The work was started in April, 1917, taking five years to complete. Edwin P. May, vice president of the company and resident manager of the job said the work should have been completed in three years but was delayed on account of the unsettled labor conditions due to the war.

WOMAN NEAR LOUISA AGE 103

(Out of Washington and from the pension records, comes the following story of a woman living three miles southeast of Louisa, at the home of Henderson Wells.)

Washington, May 30.—On this Decoration day the thoughts of the second conflict in this nation's history, fought 110 years ago, is uppermost in the minds of at least two score of women—forty—some widows who had husbands in the war of 1812.

And on this Decoration day for the first time Kentucky has the honor of being the home State of the eldest widow, whose name is on the Government pension roll as the result of service rendered to the country by her husband in the first war after the foundation of the American Government.

For, according to the latest available record of the United States Pension Office, Mrs. Mahala Huff of Louisa, Ky., can claim that distinction.

Mrs. Huff, who is 103 years old, is the widow of James Huff, who served as a private in Company G of the Virginia Militia in the War of 1812, he volunteered November 5, 1813, at Knoxville, Tenn., and served until March 10, 1814, when he was honorably discharged. James Huff, according to the Pension Bureau records was born in Virginia in 1794. He was 19 years old when he volunteered to fight for his country against the British and he was still under his majority when he was discharged, after serving with the Fourth Regiment of General Taylor's brigade and having participated in numerous skirmishes near Norfolk, Va.

Married When 50 Years Old.

Two years after he had donned the uniform and returned to his farm he married Miss Anna Pennington in Marion county, Kentucky. Later his wife died, and December 5, 1869 when 75 years old, he married again, his second wife being Miss Mahala Wells, who was then 50 years old. And the second Mrs. Huff, according to the records still survives and is now a resident of Louisa, Ky., where the Government sends her monthly pension check. On Decoration day a year ago the distinction now held by Mrs. Huff went to Mrs. Elizabeth R. Tyler of Baltimore, Md., who died recently at the age of 104.

Eugene Wallace Makes High Class Furniture

The following is from the Ashland Independent:

A window display which is attracting the attention of every passer-by is that of the C. H. Parsons Company where some beautiful pieces of furniture—the product of the Manual Training School—are on exhibition.

There are about dozen pieces and all are the handiwork of Eugene Wallace, second year pupil in the Ashland High School. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F. T. D. Wallace Jr. formerly of Louisa but who located in Ashland last year in order to get the benefit of Ashland's splendid public school system.

Looking at this exhibit a person would hardly believe at first glance that work of this character and description could be manufactured by a boy but the director of manual training, E. O. Saunders, declares that this is just the result of the class room work of young Mr. Wallace.

Every piece in the exhibit shows superior workmanship and skill. Particular interest is shown in a beautiful floor lamp, the pedestal of which is cut from solid black walnut and will bear comparison with the very best floor lamps carried in any first-class furniture store. But all the pieces are worth-while and would look well in any home. The collection consists of book-case, bookrack, floor lamp, desk lamp, two candle sticks, nut bowl, Indian clubs, two foot stools, match box and two cement floor boxes.

Location of The New State Normal Schools

There is nothing worth reporting in connection with the new Eastern Kentucky Normal school proposition. We know that Louisa would have a fine chance if the requirements in the way of money and land were met. But the price of land jumps out of sight every time it is mentioned.

The commission will meet in Lexington June 7 to hear delegations from the various cities that are applicants and to decide upon the location. So the matter will soon be settled.

The Paintsville Herald says a strong pull is being made to acquire the Jno. C. C. Mayo College property and offer it to the state.

Ashland has committees at work soliciting the amount needed to qualify for the school.

On May 20, 1922, death visited the home of our brother and sister, G. W. and Permelia Hays and claimed the husband and father. George was born Sept. 4, 1874. He was married to Miss Permelia Johnson and to this union four children were born. Glen, age 7, Inise, age 5, Thelma, age 3, Wilma, age 11 months. He has been sick a long time and had been confined to his room for about one year. He was converted about six years ago and has lived a devout Christian and true to God. He bore his sickness with such patience and always seemed willing for the Lord's will to be done. He was often heard saying, "Lord, have your way."

He left to mourn his loss an aged mother, six sisters, two brothers, a host of friends and relatives.

Reintless death amongst us comes. It takes the good ones from our home, But never from our hearts.

NOBODY'S SWEETIE.

It is probably the irony of fate that so many people who have no brains are obsessed with the idea that they are brimming over with them and on the other hand, many who have their full share and over firmly believe them selves to be block heads. Those in the latter class are the more to be pitied for the nerve of the first class will get them somewhere, while the timid ones will never have the courage to test their own powers. For that reason, never be afraid of a job because it seems too big for you. It is only filling a job that is bigger than your last one that you can grow. Too many people make the mistake of growing down to their jobs rather than up to them.

We should all have respect for our fellow men. This applies particularly to members of the same household. In some homes such a thing as individual privacy is unknown, yet it is a necessity if you wish to avoid friction. You wouldn't think of passing your mother or brother on the street and rudely pushing against them, yet sometimes when they are trying to rest or think you will force them rudely upon their notice and make them wonder where you were a thousand miles hence. The next time you are in a quiet mood and some boisterous person keeps buzzing around you, take notice and see yourself as others see you occasionally.

Life.

By Edgar A. Guest.

Life is a jest:

Take the delight of it.

Laughter is best:

Sing through the night of it.

Swiftly the tear:

And the hurt and the ache of it.

Finds us down here:

Life must be what we make of it.

Life is a song:

Let us dance to the thrill of it.

Grief's hours are long:

And cold is the chill of it.

Joy is man's need:

Let us smile for the sake of it.

This is our creed:

Life must be what we make of it.

Life is a soul:

The virtue and vice of it.

Strife for a goal:

And man's strength is the price of it.

Your life and mine,

The bare bread and the cake of it.

End in this line:

Life must be what we make of it.

Needle Taken from Baby's Back.

A needle was taken from the back of the one-year-old girl of Mr. and Mrs. Mantford Dixon, who reside on Mill Branch, near Paintsville. The child had been in delicate health for some time and failed to respond to treatment of physicians. Finally what was thought to be a boil or carbuncle appeared on the little one's back and a physician was called to lance it. Mrs. Dixon in dressing and examining the wound found what at first appeared to be a piece of thorn, but on further examination found it to be the point of a needle. She pulled the needle out, and the little one is now almost well. The needle was about one and one-half inches in length with the eye broken out, and had corroded and was blackened. It is thought that the child had swallowed the needle in some way and that it had passed through the stomach, as it was taken out about half way the back close up to the spine and about on a level with the stomach.

Jack Price's House Wrecked.

Manager Jack Price, of the Consolidation Coal Co. at Van Lear, is minus a perfectly good house. While his coal mines are all down, so is his beautiful residence. Mr. Price wanted to have his house moved from the hill to the bottom below and a contract was let a firm to move the house. The furniture was left in the home and by some means the house succeeded in getting away from the men in charge and landed in the valley below, but not in the position Mr. Price wanted it. The building with its contents were destroyed.

Bridge Across Big Sandy.

A contract for a bridge across Big Sandy river at the mouth of Paint creek has been approved and work will start at once. Last year a contract was made for a bridge at this place by the Fiscal Court, but after the election of a new Fiscal Court the matter was investigated and the contract found to be irregular in some instances and it was rejected. In the meantime the bridge company had shipped a part of the material for the bridge, and after some delay the court and the bridge company reached an agreement whereby the bridge across Paint Creek is to be built at once and the company agreed to construct a road from the bridge to the mouth of Buffalo creek on the east side of the river and build a bridge across Buffalo creek all for the same money they were to get for the bridge across Paint Creek. These bridges will give the east side of the river an outlet to the county seat and will connect with the road to Martin county which leads from Whitehouse to Inez. A little work on the county roads in Martin and Johnson will connect these county seats with a good road.

WHY SUFFER SO?

Why suffer from a bad back, from sharp, shooting twinges, headaches, dizziness and distressing urinary ills? Louisville people recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Ask your neighbor! Could you ask for stronger proof of merit?

Mr. Frank Pigg, Water St., Louisville says: "I suffered with many kidney symptoms, all of which were painful and annoying. Through the back and hips were my weakest spots and I could scarcely stand the dull, heavy pain and lameness, which existed in those places. I was weak, tired and sick in body and spirit. I had tired, nervous headaches and dizzy spells often annoyed me. I also was troubled with the irregular condition of my kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills were finally brought to my notice and on procuring a box at the Louisville Drug Store Co., I began their treatment. They rejuvenated my kidneys, quickened the action of these organs and entirely rid me of the suffering." (Statement given January 27, 1908.)

On December 3, 1920, Mrs. Pigg said: "Doan's Kidney Pills rid me of a severe attack of kidney trouble in 1908. My cure has been a lasting one."

THE ASSISTANT

By BERTHA M. JONES

© 1921 by McClure Newspaper Syndicate

Stanley sat with his thin little legs curled up on the window seat and his nostrils pressed against the green shutters half closed against the hot sunlight. He was watching a maimed electric car being repaired in the car barn across the street.

Stanley's world was bounded by electric cars. For the last five of his eight years he had studied them from the shutter chinks, had listened to their comings and goings, until he had come to know the difference in sound between a car on wheels of cast iron and one on wheels of steel.

And then car "78" became distinguishable from car "53" just by its own special clank and clatter; and he could tell car "53" from car "618" in the same way.

These were his pet cars, the ones which passed the window seat oftenest.

Stanley was always unique. He was six years old before his frail little frame decided it could move around and carry the weight of his well developed head.

So Stanley remained in his window nook and studied the street cars. On cool summer days, when the shutters were wide open, the chairman of the tram company, who lived in a beautiful house near the car-barn, sometimes came over and spent a few minutes talking with Stanley, giving and receiving information. And he it was who put upon the little chap the honorary title of "Assistant Manager of the Tram Company"—a title by which Stanley loved to designate himself to any new visitors whom Grandma Bevery might entertain.

The greatest day of all his life had been when the chief engineer took him for a ride all around the city in the observation car.

And now had come a day when Stanley, in the window seat, watched with unusual solicitude the maimed car which had been pulled into the car-barn. It was car "53," driven by Mr. Ross, his favorite driver, who so often waved to Stanley while passing his observation nook.

An accident had happened to "53" and Driver Ross had been discharged from service. The news came to Stanley through Grandma Bevery.

The accident happened away out of sight of the window nook.

Stanley had noticed how beautifully "53" appeared that last morning on the rails when she came out of the barn, newly painted and newly fitted. How fine Driver Ross had looked there by the wheel! But before noon the news came to Grandma Bevery that "53" was piled against a house with her machinery broken. A loose brick in the old street pavement had caused her to slide from the rails so easily that the driver never noticed. And then a turn in the street came, and "53" did not respond to the brakes, but rolled ignominiously into the wall of a house, much to the terror of passengers and residents, and most horrifying to Driver Ross.

"Grandma, what will become of Driver Ross in his old age?"

"Dear me, how can I tell? He'll maybe have to go to another city and hunt for a long time for even one day's work."

"He can't go to any other place, Grandma, for his wife is sick all the time."

"That's so, child."

"Grandma," Stanley pressed between the old lady and the stove and stood with arms folded. "Grandma, I feel like going over and consulting with the chairman about this."

"Very well, dear, perhaps that would be better," and Grandma winked at Billy, the cat.

Stanley put on his broad sailor hat, and holding Grandma's hand, he walked over to the beautiful home of the chairman of the tram company.

"Mr. Fraser," he said, when the maid had brought him into that gentleman's office, "I have come to speak with you about Driver Ross."

"Yes, Stanley," said Mr. Fraser, "and I'm pleased to have you come. Now let's sit down and talk."

"You see, Mr. Fraser, it's this way with Ross, he's been with your company so long he won't understand how to start in any other business. And then it's not fair to turn a good man off for his first offense."

"Well, Stanley," Mr. Fraser began, looking kindly on the quaint little chap, "you must admit it was a gross error, the worst accident we've had on our cars in years. The public won't stand for blunders like that."

"Mr. Fraser, if you worked hard for twenty years and never made one bad mistake till then, you wouldn't want to be turned down, would you?"

"No, it would be hard. But what can we do? Ross is getting old and evidently rusting out."

"I'll tell you, Mr. Fraser, what to do," and Stanley folded his small, bony hands enthusiastically. "You make Driver Ross over into Conductor Ross and let him go on '53' just the same." And in his excitement Stanley rose and patted Mr. Fraser's arm nervously.

The chairman of the tram company thought awhile and then said slowly:

"I like your idea, Stanley. I'll put it before the company tonight."

When "53" went again on the rails, newly fitted and looking splendid, it was Conductor Ross who waved a joyous greeting to Stanley in his window nook.

Sunday school at this place every Sunday evening at 3 o'clock and we are glad to say in commendation of our officers of the law it is safe now for men to come and bring their families to church or Sunday school, as the law violators have been dealt with so roughly since Esq. Butler, Constable G. S. Parker and Deputy Sheriff Geo. D. Young came in.

We are sorry to say our roads are in such a condition it is not safe even for folks to travel by horseback. A few days ago Mrs. Harmon Kidd was riding and her horse stuck in mud and threw her and her baby. The child rolled off down the bluff but fortunately for them neither was hurt. The merchants on this road get their meal and flour ruined with mud in the bottom of wagon beds. So much oil machinery hauling here.

The Rev. Hack Young of Ulysses, preached an interesting sermon at Irish creek last Sunday. This was a memorial meeting of the Young and Adams families in honor of their deceased relatives. After church at the house the congregation marched to the cemetery near the old home of Esq. John W. Young, who died several years ago and the writer will say no community ever lost a better and nobler friend of Christianity and morality than J. W. Young was to Irish creek vicinity.

Sam Butler and his sister, Mrs. Ross Wood are visiting relatives and friends in Johnson county where they will attend memorial services at the old home place near Paintsville where their father, John W. Butler is buried.

Miss Anna Young of this place is visiting relatives and friends on Keaton at the oil fields.

Miss Elva Hylton has returned here to stay awhile with her aunt, Mrs. J. H. Houck.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Houck, Forest Rogers and wife and Sam Houck, Jr., were visiting relatives and friends on Irish creek Sunday. Also, Geo. D. and May Young, Perry McNeal and Glen Rogers were at Irish creek Sunday.
